GLADES COUNTY HAS OPPORTUNITY TO CHOOSE WORTHY SUCCESSOR TO THE LATE HON. J. H. PEEPLES

Over in Glades county a special election will be held soon to choose a state representative to serve in the 1943 session of the legislature. The recent death of Hon. Joe Peebles makes a special election necessary.

The record of the late "Uncle Joe" as he was known to thousands of Floridians is enviable to the last, but there is a fellow in Glades county who can fill his place in Tallahassee—and that person is none other than the genial Carr Settle.

Young Mr. Settle comes from a family of unquestionable integrity and his character is of that sterling quality which makes him an outstanding citizen in his home community. Having served his home town faithfully and well; as a member of the city council, and having been chosen along with other members of the board of county commissioners—through thick and thin for many years—he is ably equipped to serve the citizenry of Moore Haven and the entire county of Glades.

The editor of this newspaper, having served in Tallahassee in the House of Representatives with the late Mr. Peebles, is of the opinion that Glades citizens could pick no better man to represent them than Mr. Settle.

In choosing Mr. Settle voters of Glades would have a representative who would, at all times, have the betterment of the state and the county of Glades at heart. They would have man whose honesty and uprightness would stand impregnable against sinister efforts of certain unscrupulous politicians in the state.

In naming Carr Settle as representative from Glades county the voters would be sure to have a man who would immediately win the friendship and good will of the other 94 members of the house—a man who would uphold the tradition that "The Gentleman from Glades" considers the ultimate result of any proposed bill before he casts a vote for its passage or defeat.

GEORGIA QUININE

The startling news comes from the Philip Morris Company that the voters had to wait an account of fever. The statement continues that there was an entire lack of quinine. It is also reported there is now a real shortage of quinine in this country.

When the war between the states was at its worst, from 1861 to 1865, the South had a dearth of quinine.

They at once sought Georgia bark. This plant they found to be a first class febrifuge, practically as good as cinchona bark. Robert E. Lee knew that the poor folks of the back country, from South Carolina to Florida, stopped the exterior from Georgia bark and used it successfully as a fever cure. It worked famously for the Southern army.

Locally, in parts of the country it is called bitter bark and also calisus bush. It belongs to the madder family. The time of bloom is May and June.

This remarkable growth, which may be described as a tree, has been forgotten for nearly a hundred years except in the back country of the South. Its cultivation might easily become a large and profitable crop.—Atlanta Journal.

ing late, rented for $10 a month, which she had struggled to hold in hope that it would serve as a Florida home in her declining years. Bereaved through the loss of her husband, she had little money and was unable to pay her taxes.

She might have enjoyed fruits of the Murphy act if she had quit paying soon enough, but unfortunately her delinquency came later and timely she received notice that her little property was to be sold for tax.

Unable to hire a flock of tax experts or high priced attorneys, and assuming that all she need do was have her property sold to the IRS, she began to haggle with the agent appointed to collect the taxes. She appealed to a friend in Florida for help, asking that the taxes be paid with money she had arranged to borrow some more.

In panic and humility she had nearly given up a brand of friendly and benevolent state and county, now "Please could she have her property?" She could NOT. It seemed that the agent was obliged to help a poor widow, the older agent in charge explained that you didn't really need to SEE the guy, she could take the dough if you wanted to pay your taxes.

After a hurried look at the request and got a receipt, but no cancelled certificates and demand an explanation of the charges that forced a person to pay $435. In order to settle a $318.44 tax bill, Mrs. Thadd Whidden is named HOSPITAL RUPT.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 1942.

There's five times more POWER
in back of every Tank!

They said America was "soft"— that our easy living would make us easy licking.

But cocky American fighting men proved them painfully wrong at Wake, Midway, Batavia. And the same factories that produced our peacetime comforts are geared today into the greatest war industry
the world has ever seen!

Production is military power.
And electric power is production.
America can produce the planes, tanks, ships and guns to win this war because America has five times the electric power it had in the last war, and twice as many power plants as all the Axis and conquered countries combined.

For that you can thank the quiet, competent men who manage America's electric companies. They were ready when war came—and their practical, proved experience will help keep America's war machine humming on the high road to Victory!

How The New Credit Regulations Affect You As A Consumer . . .

WE ARE PUBLISHING THIS SIMPLIFIED QUESTION AND ANSWER EXPLANATION in interest of our customers & general public

Effective May 6, new Consumer Credit Regulations were ordered by the Federal Reserve System. We believe it is in the public interest to explain and try to simplify these regulations, pointing out that there is no need to worry unduly about new terms or to stop making purchases of needed materials.

1. What is the general purpose and meaning of the new Credit Regulations?

Answer—The general purpose is to keep the cost of living from rising and encourage payment of debts.

2. What articles or transactions are covered in regulations?

Answer—The articles are too numerous to mention individually. The list covers 46 different classifications and applies to almost every type of goods likely to be bought.

3. How much time will you have to pay up charge accounts?

Answer—Such bills must be paid by the 10th of the second calendar month following the month in which purchase was made. If you make a purchase during July, for example, it must be paid in full not later than September 10th.

In case the purchase was made before May 1, 1942, it must be paid in full (or arrangements made) by July 10, 1942—see below.

4. In case you find it impossible to pay up old charge accounts by July 10, can other methods of payment be arranged?

Answer—Yes. You can make a written agreement with the firm you owe to pay the amount in not less than 6 months in equal payments of not less than $5.00 a month. In extreme cases you may file a statement of necessity with the firm you owe, in which case you may be given up to 12 months to pay off the debt.

5. What about purchases of materials and services to repair or improve real estate?

Answer—The cost of such repairs or improvements may be financed over a period of 12 months provided it is not more than $1500.00. No down payment is required except in cases where some article on which the regulations call for a down payment is furnished.

6. Does this affect repairs for defense housing?

Answer—No. Provided the work in question is actually designated by the National Housing Administrator as defense housing.

11. Do the above questions and answers cover most of the points affecting the purchase of building materials?

Answer—Yes. In general, the above will be your guide as to what you must do and how, but in case of doubt we will be able to advise you in detail on any article or service which we offer for sale.

SUMMARY. The new Credit Regulations are tighter, limit length of time payments and emphasize the necessity for cleaning up old debts. They do not prevent you from buying more goods or borrowing money, but they state the terms on which you can do so.

PENALTIES. Penalties on dealers are severe for failure to comply with these regulations. Those penalties also apply to consumers who wilfully make false statements in an effort to evade the terms of these Credit Regulations. Penalties for the dealer may mean suspension of his right to do business, on a temporary or permanent basis, and may include a fine up to $14,000 or 10 years in jail or both.

We pledge ourselves to work with you to solve your credit problems in a fair and friendly manner. We want your continued business and are eager to co-operate with you in meeting these new regulations.

Cinematic Chatter

BY MALCOLM MILLAR

A number of years ago when I was a dramatic stock actor, I had the pleasure of playing many performances of "Twin Beds," the play that is now handled by the studio. In the movie version he is known as Nicolai Cheripkin. In the stage play he was Jimmy Larchmont. He is the fellow who always is in the middle of all the trouble.

Digging into my scrap book of reviews I find one from the Chicago Herald Examiner, dated 1929 when we did the play for an extended run there. "Twin Beds" was a sensation, a joy to the longest runs, any farcial boast in those days. Released for stock it was one of the biggest box office hits.

I suspect the movies have made changes in the play to meet with present day requirements since Mr. George Brent, Mischa Auer and other members of the cast all turn in creditable performances. I shall enjoy seeing it again and I am sure you will enjoy it, too.

We are on the subject "back to those good old days," let's get in the groove on the Tuesday show—"Kings Row." The book was read by millions and placed the name of the author, Bellamy, who wrote the novel on the tip of the tongues of millions.

Shiver my tingling spine I can hardly wait for the "Ghost of Frankenstein," coming on double feature with "Wings of Victory" starring Boris Karloff was the original mechanical monster, but Sir Cedric Hardwicke has taken over that chair in this picture. According to press material Cedric is a hellish chimp job animated by Lynn Chase. Boris Lupton helps the boys lift the dandruff right out of your hair. Ralph Bellamy, pipe and all, furnishes the Sheeklocking in the piecemeal and James Ankens, sort of man of one silver sheet, puts in a few heart thumps.

"Murder in the Big House," I don't know a thing about this one. The stars are all unknown to me and I can only give you an idea of what it is about and let it go at that.

An inmate of the Big House is to be executed. The night before he is to walk the last mile he is informed that he is in a bit of mystery as to who did the deed and for what purpose, but two newshounds are get curious and investigate the affair with surprising results. There is the whole story on this one. So much for the plot.

The opener on the double feature for Friday only, "Shanghai Gesture," is really a Sunday-Monday show, but, due to over crowded bookings, it has found its way to this particular program.

Anything could happen in Shanghai, and it does! Lovely young Poppies is swept into its evil mad storm, falls madly in love with a man who created at everything but cards and quickly tired of the women he fascinated so fatidally, in a glittering underworld. Molie Sin Shih Lung, from a famous gambling casino where lives and fortunes were destroyed at the turn of a wheel.

On the lighter side and on the program comes "Yodel Boy," with Alice Deane. The title character will give you 60 minutes of stomach wrenching laughter and some of the most tuneful song numbers yet heard in a movie. You won't think you're in a big wide world.

SMALL'S "TWIN BEDS"
OFFERS GLITTERING FARCE COMEDY

A slick comedy cast, headed by such luminaries as Joan Bennett; George Brent; Mischa Auer; Glenn Farrell; Ernest Truex and Uni Merle, is responsible for the gayety, fun and hilarity which highlight the swift-moving action of the new Edward Small production, "Twin Beds."

It tells a laugh-getting story of a young married couple, consisting of Miss Bennett and Mr. Brent, who become involved in a whole series of crazy complications because the heroine goes about daffily doing good deeds where they always have the worst possible effect.

Miss Bennett's enthusiasm for good causes finally brings her harassed husband to the end of his rope and skips town. When he returns, on a mission of reconciliation, he is greeted by a surprise that is more than any man in his right mind is willing to accept.

The spell looked so funny as it was caused by the camera that Director Edward Small ordered the take printed and reversed the sequence to include it. "Twin Beds" also introduces to the screen the techniques of "Cossack's Kisses," something entirely new in lovemaking as originated by the remarkable Mischa Auer.

From there on the story gambols madly to a bright finish.

"One of the funniest sequences in the picture is the scene in which Brent, attired in robe and pajamas, was supposedly having a running quarrel with his screen wife, Miss Bennett. As he dashed around the end of their bed his foot caught in a bearskin rug and he landed heavily on his knees and one shoulder.

hazardous task, that of stalking the dread Frankenstein Monster.

In both films, Chaney portrayed the prey of the police led by Bellamy, and in the new drama Miss Ankers, leading lady of "The Wolf Man," has the romantic lead opposite him.

Hansel is cast as Dr. Frankenstein, son of the monster-maker, who attempts a daring operation to transform the Monster into a docile creature. Instead, the beast becomes more terrifying than ever, and Frankenstein learns that he has been mistaken in hiding the Monster from the police while attempting the new-miracle in surgery.

His second policeman role in as many horror films is now played by Ralph Bellamy.
